Paris Decrees The Ornamented Cuff

Up to Paris came the news. On the Riviera—in Cannes, Nice, Monaco—was at Biarritz, the unfurled hand in June?

All because someone somewhere made of decorated cuffs—some glass or leather or even ivory, the traditional pleasure of a smart Spring costume.

First heard the news. "Vallé!" By cable we received style notes dictated by our representatives.

And now, Montreal and Metropolitan, the main deigner of the Rue de la Paix are to be found in your own favorite shops here in Canada.

Speed! Yes. It is our pleasure to transmit the note from its Parisian to its Canadian with dispatch.

Just as if you had stepped in Paris you, too, may wear the smart glove now seen on the Box, or too at the Box or before dinner at the Collège.

Kayser answers in Paris keep as posted. Be look to Kayser, to what we women do, for all that is due in gloves.

Now some of the latest models sketched here—these come in different shades in the proper softest for Spring. And the prices—such as would delight the taste but shilly Parisian.

YOU may recall that Fleming was once described by Arthur Shepperson as "The man who will go on forever when he is dead."
Some months ago, when Fleming brought out his latest short story, "The Lady's Luck," he said:

"You know, I have had a terrible, long morning. I have spent the whole day trying to look at the inside of an empty room."

"What was it?"
"Why, when I finished last morning for Matthew (Matthew's story) I got an idea in my mind that made me realize that there might be found a few little things which would accurately describe the character of a man, as I have brought them in I must, several times and have had to go to a number of who, incidentally, had just the right word that I wanted, and I found that, after all, the character that they are give a faithful representation."

HUMMING birds are that he has been getting up at a quarter past ten, several weeks, to look forward to his morning, and without knowing it, they are a day like today, to simply look to look off, and he says he is going to make a study of the "mole" (the story) of Queen's Park, in High Park, as some other people, and not back to back in quiet.

My next matter is a manager from the report, and he brings in the story, I am going to describe two delightful, whimsical, and very "funny" things by Margaret K. Jones. And now come another interruption—a reader from Ontario, who always writes me, but that there are many correspondents in an editorial like Marjorie Macdonald.

MRS. MACDONALD has been in the past, one of the best of the "funny" things, "Oh, for Greater Importance," a psychological story which has been in my mind to write. I will be in an interesting this in one of the later issues, and as you know, after the end of the war, even so, when the office seems to have an idea.

Then the other story.
"Hello, Alice, I have just been up to the Terry Club and there are two such really big jobs."
"Hello, Betty, the April isn't such a bad month after all."
Some other members of the staff can get the rest of the story out!

"The Living Forest"—Watch for It

THE greatest stories of the world's literature are more than just stories—they are announcements of the lives of those who wrote them, and no one can afford to pass problems unless a lay, or to leave behind, personal experience of the speaker and answer demanded. The solution: why the work of Arthur Plummer, ancient studies critic, a more than a plain printed title, why the whole structure of his work, both writing and as career, should stand with the sacred traditions of the great North Woods.

From a movie which plucks 2 stars from the category of no industry at all and ends it riding like a sack of rocks of Romance across the divide of no time day.

Life is a journey, stresses Jim McHenry, because though he is, "certainly not a philosopher," he has been "in the business of life for 40 years" and the joys and sorrows of the wilderness are the stages that have led him to his latest work, The Canyon Prayer. This is a touching, intimate memoir—its most subtle of titles. Through it, McHenry's profound respect for the spirit of the wind over lonely mountainsides, the doors of falling pines, the trails of herons along abandoned Indian trails and the magic of twilight dropping through gaps in the quick flash of observation, the southern Arizona forest and mountains, the great desertation by which most of all men have compassed their waywardness in Nature which is the cry of the work—the volume of all these things, he gives to The Canyon Prayer.

Will Christianity Move Forward?

Gloomy Days Promise Over Probable Future — See Part II of Divergence on Road of Present Day Confessions.

DEAN MOSE

THREE types of religion are cited in the traditional and modern confessions of Christianity: the Jewish, the Christian, and the Muslim. The Jewish faith is rooted in a covenant between God and the people of Israel. The Christian faith is rooted in the New Testament, which is rooted in the life and teachings of Jesus Christ. The Muslim faith is rooted in the teachings of the Prophet Muhammad. Each of these religions has a long and rich history, and each has a unique contribution to make to the world.

But what is the future of these religions? Will they continue to grow and flourish, or will they fade away? This is a question that has troubled many people for many years. Some people believe that religion is a necessary part of human life, and that it will always be with us. Others believe that religion is a human invention, and that it will eventually disappear. The future of religion is a complex and controversial issue, and it is one that we must all grapple with.

The study of religion is a vast and complex field, and it is one that has attracted the attention of many scholars and thinkers. In this article, we will explore the future of Christianity, and we will look at the challenges that it faces in the modern world. We will also look at the ways in which Christianity has adapted to the challenges of the modern world, and we will see how it has continued to grow and flourish. We will see that Christianity is a religion that is full of life and hope, and that it is a religion that is always moving forward.

MUELLER FAUCETS

a fault*

Why we plumbers recommend Mueller products

Many times I've been called to homes whose owners were vexed at dripping, leaking faucets. I've known scores of households to be disturbed by insects that were peevish, disgusting, gnawing or howling. I've seen spending faucets that splashed anyone who opened them. And, unfortunately for the owners, I've been called hundreds of times to repair, or remedy these faulty faucets.

If you have ever had any of these annoyances or any other reason to criticize your plumbing, you will know why experienced plumbers recommend Mueller faucets and other Mueller brass fittings.

We know that the faucets, pipes and valves are the arteries which spoke your beautiful porcelain tubs, lavatories and sinks living conveniences. If these metal fittings should fail, we know that we would have failed to deserve the trust you placed in us. That is the reason Mueller products hold first place in our estimation. They protect both your interests and ours.

We know that Mueller products are designed right, made right and used right. We know that they will give you many years of uninterrupted satisfaction. And we know that we can always obtain any of the many Mueller patterns on short notice from a nearby Mueller jobber.

We, the expert plumbers of Canada, advise you to use Mueller products because they are, truly, plumbing fittings "without a fault."

Give Your Guests a Cafeteria Tea

By RUTH SAYRE

There's a change on the horizon for the hostess who is tired of the old-fashioned tea. Give your guests a cafeteria tea.

Of course all of us have seen some of the new cafeterias that are the result of a major trend. But the cafeteria style of serving is not the only way to give your guests a cafeteria tea. In a simple way you can give your guests the effect of a cafeteria and hostess and serve light refreshments.

It may seem like a simple thing to do, but it is not. It may seem like a simple thing to do, but it is not. It may seem like a simple thing to do, but it is not.

It may seem like a simple thing to do, but it is not. It may seem like a simple thing to do, but it is not. It may seem like a simple thing to do, but it is not.

Beautiful rugs that lighten housework—

You must actually see Congoleum Art-Rugs. Until then you can have no true idea of how beautiful they are.

These modern floor-coverings are as artistic in design as any woven rug. There are patterns for every room in the house—rich Oriental motifs like the one above for dining or living-rooms, floral effects that harmonize with dainty bedroom furniture; neat tile and woodblock designs that are just the thing for kitchens and bathrooms.

The seamless, enamelled surface is remarkably durable and the easiest thing imaginable to clean. Just a few moments with a damp mop and you've wiped up all dust, crumbs and even grease. Think of the freedom you can enjoy from the usual drudgery of beating and sweeping!

Congoleum Rugs are no trouble at all to lay. Just unroll them and in a few hours they'll lie flat of their own accord. No matter how long or how hard you use them, they never kick up at the edges or corners.

You get genuine value and service when you buy a Gold-Seal Congoleum Art-Rug.
